M. Jules Ferry. We take the following biographical notice from Men of the Time :-Ferry, Jules François Camille, & French statesman, born at Snint Dié (Vosges), Apr. 5, 1832, studied law at Paris, where he was admitted to the bar in 1854. He joined the group of young lawyers who sided the Deputies in maintaining constant opposition to the Empire, and he was one of those condemand in the famous trial of the 'thirteen' (1854). He also became connected with fournalism, and he published, 1863, a pamphlet entitled 'La Lutie Electorale,' in which he exposed the method so persistently practised under the Empire. of electing official gandidates. He joined the staff of the Temps in 1865, and won now renown for himself by contributing to that journal a series of articles on current politics, as well as by the terrible analysis which he bestowed upon the accounts of Baron Haussmann, Prefect of the Seine, who was then occupied in rebuilding Paris, and who consequently handled very large sums of money. These latter articles were republished in book form, under the happy title of 'Comptes Fantastiques d'Haussmann, He had previously made, in 1863, an unsuccessful attempt to seems his election to the Corps Legislatif; but in 1869 he was better known, and he was elected, on a second scruting, by 15,729 votes, from the sixth conscription of the Seine, and he took his sent among the members of the Left. He way a member of several important commissions, including that which was appointed no longer represented the majority in the country. Foreseeing that the war with Prussia would be disastrous, he, with his colleagues of the Left, voted against the fatal declaration. At the Revolution of Sept. 4, 1870, he and the other Paris Deputies were proclaimed members of the Government of the National Defence, located at the Hotel de Ville. On the 5th he was appointed Secretary to the Government, and on the 6th he was charged with the administration of the Department of the Seine. When the Communal insurrection of Oot. 31, 1670, occurred he risked his life quality with the best. English to suppress it. Subsequently he was delegated to the central mayoralty of Paris, after the resignation of M. Arago (Nov. 15. (870). In this capacity he presided over the assembly of mayors, which, on Jan. 18, 1871, decided on the distribution of rations of brend, and two days later he issued a de- Colony from Tonkin on Saturday, cree authorizing a search to be made for sone. On Jan. 22 he was a second time called upon to resist a body of insurgents, who, curnged at the defeat of the French armies in the sortie on Montreteut and to consider the extraordinary budget of the city of Paris. He was one of the deputies the Corps Legislatif, on the ground that it the intention of overthrowing the Governthe closing episode of the siege, for Paris tice; has resigned. capitulated four days later. At the election of Feb. 8, 1871, he was elected one of the THE a. s. Arratoen Appar, from Calcutta, representatives of the department of the Vosges, and thereupon he resigned his functions as a member of the Government of the Defence and administrator of the department of the Seine, although he retained | this morning at S o'clock for this port. the latter office provisionally until the 18th entry of the troops into Paris, M. Thiers from Manila, flying a yellow flag, and pronominated him Prefect of the Seine (May 24); but the appointment gave rise to so much hostile criticism, that M. Ferry resigned after ten days, and was succeeded by M. Loon Say. Subsequently it was understood that M. Forry would be sent as ambussador to Washington, but the proposed appointment was so unpopular that it was never officially announced. He was, however, sent as Minister to Athens (Mav. 1872). After holding that appointment for a year he resigned it, and resumed his place in the ranks of the Republican Left, of which he became President. He was again to-morrow for Hongkong via Kobe, elected a member of the Council-General Nagasaki and Shanghai. of the Vesges in 1871, and for some time le was vice-president of that body. He was re-elected for the arondissement of Saint Die at the general elections of Feb. 1876, and Oct. 1877. He was chosen one of the vice-presidents of the Budget Committee in May, 1878. After the resignation of Marshal MacMahon (Jan. 30, 1879). M. Ferry was appointed, by the new President of the Republic, M. Grevy, to a To-Day at the Magistracy Ng Kau, fireman, grose when M. Senate a strong party, including many modirty or greasy, or that appear to have Bimon, resisted the seventh clause. Owing to this determined opposition the Bill was postponed. In the following year (1880) M. de Freycinet, who had become Prime Minister, authorized the insertion in M Ferry's Government Education Bill of the

On Nov. 10. (late Second Engineer s.s. Yoritomo Maru), 1881, M. Ferry's Ministry resigned on account of the attacks made upon At 43, Broadway, Shanghai, on the 11th their policy in regard to the expedition to of March, JOHN HENRY HOLE (Pilot) aged Tunis. In Feb., 1883, however, after the fall of the Fallières administration, M. At Shanghai, on the morning of the 12th Ferry was sent for by the President of March, EUPHEMIA MCARTHUR, the beloved the Republic to form a new Ministry. wife of Daniel Taylor Black. Deeply re- This he did, he himself becoming Premier and Minister of Public Instruction. As such, leaving the religious question to settle itself, M. Ferry started upon a policy of coronial expansion, and undertook the invasion of Tonquin. The vast cost and the unsatisfactory issue of this invasion were in due time fatal to him; he was charged with having fallen into a trap laid by Bismarck, with weakening France, and with belonging to a syndicate which made money out of his adventures. He was suddenly overthrown by a vote of the Chambet (1884) and has not as yet been able to recover his
